

Cinema BBFC ratings info - Guidance for Distributors

(Updated March 2013)

The BBFC welcomes the decision of film distributors, through the FDA, to include BBFC ratings info in cinema release publicity for all films, regardless of category.

This updated Guidance serves to refresh distributors, in a clearer manner, with regard to the current requirements on the display of BBFC ratings info. Distributors should note that, following discussion with the FDA, the requirement on the positioning of BBFC ratings info in print ads / posters has been revised to allow more flexibility in terms of the graphic design of the ads without compromising the legibility of BBFC ratings info.

Overarching Requirements:

- BBFC ratings info must be displayed in cinema release publicity for ALL films, regardless of category.
- BBFC ratings info must be displayed in a prominent and legible manner in every instance.

The following guidance should enable the BBFC ratings info to be displayed in a prominent and legible manner:

Minimum Requirements:

Positioning of BBFC ratings info

- Category and BBFC ratings info (split over two lines) should be displayed at the end of the title or directly below it. If the above cannot be achieved because of artistic or practical reasons, the BBFC ratings info should be displayed immediately adjacent to the release date or the venues. BBFC ratings info should not be displayed in the credits/logos block.

2) Posters

Box size

- On a quad poster, should not be less than 100mm x 20mm, unless the BBFC ratings info comprises less than 35 characters (including spaces and punctuation) in which case the box size can be reduced to 75mm x 20mm. The same ratio of caption size to poster size should be used for larger posters. Caption size for smaller posters may be reduced in proportion but should not be less than 25mm x 5mm.
